Raqsoft ReportLite is an intelligent desktop reporter's tool that will enable you to easily and quickly convert raw data into professional reports. It features an Excel-like interface, making it easy to use, eliminating the need for additional training to get started. You can import data to work with several files (Excel, CSV, TXT, etc.), and you can export your reports to PDF, Word, HTML, or Excel, and it will only take a few clicks.

It is developed in cases where reporting is tedious and can take a long time. ReportLite saves your time if you handle a lot of reports, constantly changing data, or have to change between various layouts and formats. Rather than recreating the reports by hand, you simply change the file that contains the data, and your existing report template is automatically adjusted to suit.

Raqsoft ReportLite also does more than what pivot tables can in Excel. It also allows you to do sophisticated computations, arbitrary grouping (such as by age groups or arbitrary intervals), multi-dimensional analysis, and cross-statistics. You are able to combine information, tailor layouts using colors and formatting, and create visually clean and accurate reports.
