Painting for many has participated in many arts shows around the globe and has prizes from reputable organizations. Additionally, I've had my work featured in art journals. After successfully selling my originals and many prints across the globe, I decided to take my art on the road and begin exploring the world using my paintings and brushes. My style is contemporary and seeks to understand the essence of my painting subject while allowing expression and freedom. I break down complex subjects into simpler forms that encourage playfulness.
