Dart PowerTCP Server for ActiveX v3.2.3

2026-10-04 21:24:38

Adding the server-side performance to the user program, along with the packages of the PowerTCP Server controllers. The PowerTCP Server for the for the ActiveX is considered to be very reliable, simple to use, and it is basically backed by the best technical support in the business for the users and the programmers. PowerTCP Winsock for the ActiveX has the capability to supply all that the user requires in order to incorporate the advance online functionality right into the application of the user, and it can contain TCP as well as UDP protocols, Daemons or providers, Ping, domain name services, multicast, and a lot more to be mentioned. It should be noted that the characteristics basically include the complex debugging process, the automated reporting, inbound as well as outbound buffering process and so on. It has the capability to be useful in any program which requires communicating on the internet. PowerTCP Winsock for ActiveX: has the ability to control TCP, UDP, Ping, RAS supply in the creation of the blocks that the user requires for the fundamental online program development process. It is considered to be very easy to use control which offers the user the superior buffer direction, with the use of the different supporting strings as well as byte array information which is available.

Dart PowerTCP Server for ActiveX Great Features:

It the following features that attributes that are stated as below such as:

- There is an access of any active connection available from a very easy to use collection.
- It can be implemented as well as established or even the custom protocol server.
- Customize authentication as well as file system management is possible.
- Adding the custom command of the FTP as well as the support.
- It permits the user and developer in order to write mail as well as other command responses along with the protocol servers.
- There is a control of DNS available and included in the resolution of client side.
- It prevents log event messages.
- It can be used in a multi-threaded environment easily by the user.
- It has the capability to support the component services of COM.
- It provides royalty-free licensing for its users.
- The wrapper classes basically include the convenient integration into the visual C++.
- It has the capability to transform the server application of the user into a Windows service.

版本列表

Dart PowerTCP Server for ActiveX v3.2.3

Dart PowerTCP Server for ActiveX v3.1.4

所有软件资源 100%安全 已检测 无病毒 无篡改
去预览

标签

Java & ActiveX Components