With just a press of Ctrl+B, you can drop a bookmark, and it will automatically assign the next available number – no need to remember or manage numbers manually. Moving between bookmarks is seamless using Ctrl+Alt+Left/Right Arrow, and the system ensures you never accidentally overwrite an existing marker. The polished design gives clear visual cues when creating, deleting, or accessing bookmarks while providing useful information about their location within your code.

Designed for efficiency, includes features like a docked window that displays all your bookmarks across files or in the current file, complete with line numbers and contexts like method or class names.
