Voyage into the Sea – A 15-Day Watercolor Series: Mastering the art of painting water with watercolours can be daunting, but with a grasp of fundamental techniques like wet-on-wet and wet-on-dry, it becomes more manageable. This class is tailored for beginners to intermediate-level artists, offering various exercises to build confidence when tackling challenging subjects such as water, reflections, and the sea.

The class is divided into two parts:

- The first part spans 8 days, with each day dedicated to learning a new aspect of seascape painting. Whether depicting calm waters, ripples, or crashing waves, each exercise aims to demystify the process and instil confidence.
- The second part focuses on larger paintings, including three A4-size and several smaller ones. As we progress through the first part, daily uploads will guide your practice, transitioning to alternate-day uploads in the second part.

Most A5-size paintings can be completed in 20-30 minutes, while those in the second part may require 30-40 minutes each as the difficulty level increases. Through structured exercises and gradual progression, you'll gain the skills and confidence to tackle even the most intricate watercolour compositions.
