ASP.Net
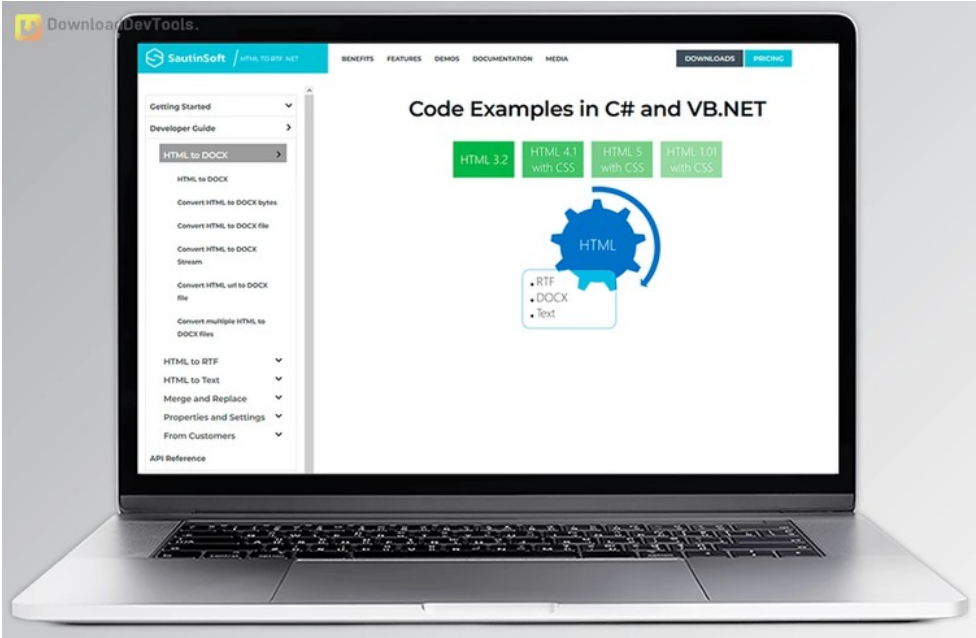

is a powerful .NET library designed to make converting HTML to DOCX, RTF, and plain text simple and efficient. Whether you're developing for Windows, macOS, or Linux, this library is fully compatible and easy to deploy on cloud platforms like Azure and AWS. The best part is that it only takes a few lines of C# code to start, letting you focus on building your app while the library handles the heavy lifting of converting complex HTML documents into fully formatted Word and text files.

The library offers impressive versatility, supporting everything from simple text extraction to more advanced document creation. You can generate DOCX files that include CSS and basic JavaScript styling, produce RTF files for easy editing across different word processors, and even merge multiple RTF documents or replace text content within them. With built-in customization options, you can tweak page sizes, fonts, margins, headers, footers, and even add watermarks, making it easy to fine-tune the output to your exact needs.

Designed for speed and ease of use, SautinSoft HTML to RTF .Net is optimized for quickly processing large documents without draining system resources. Whether you need to support cross-platform applications, deploy to the cloud, or simply convert HTML to a variety of document formats, this library provides a reliable solution that's both flexible and developer-friendly.

Key Features of SautinSoft HTML to RTF .Net :

1. HTML to DOCX Conversion: Convert HTML content into DOCX files with full support for CSS and simple JavaScript, creating well-formatted Word documents.
