Painting Landscapes for Beginners: How to Simplify a Reference Photo: Are you intimidated or uncertain about simplifying landscape paintings? In this class, we delve into simplification, breaking down reference photos into their essential elements. Whether you're a novice or a seasoned artist, mastering simplification techniques can elevate your paintings' impact and visual allure.

I'll impart fundamental principles for simplifying complex references alongside insights into adapting your color palette to match your reference. This enables you to paint any landscape using any set of colours. By the class's conclusion, you'll possess a refined approach to landscape painting characterized by simplicity and focus. Seize this opportunity to refine your painting skills and elevate your artwork to new heights!

What you'll gain from this class:

- Mastery of simplification: discerning what to include and omit in your paintings.
- Exploration of colour theory: encouraging experimentation with unconventional landscape colours.

Why enrol in this class: This class is tailored for landscape painters at any level. It's designed to empower individuals seeking to ignite their creativity by moving beyond tutorials and discovering their artistic voice through reference photos. Painting from a reference might seem daunting, but after completing this class, you'll confidently analyze any photo, break it down, and create your masterpiece.
