Devart ODBC Driver for Oracle v3.2.3 (08 Apr 2020)

2026-05-11 16:12:39

Devart ODBC Driver for Oracle has the capability to supply a very high performance as well as a feature-rich connectivity to its users and developers as well as a software in order to access the database of the Oracle right from the Linux, Windows as well as Mac OS. There is a total support for the standard of the API ODBC available for the users as well as the function and the data types that are implemented within the motorists which has the ability to make the discussion of the user application a very quick and simple and at the same time very convenient for the users. The conductivity option has the ability to empower the different programs that are ODBC aware in order to set up an immediate link to the server of the Oracle cloud, in order to get rid of the demand to get the client of the oracle. The user has the ability to connect to the Oracle with the help of the native client library of Oracle easily and flexibly.

Integration is all about the drivers that are capable of working with the third-party tools for the analyses of the information for example the Microsoft Excel which has the ability to incorporate different IDE as well as systems just like to Visual Studio.

Platform variety is available for the driver of ODBC which can be employed with the 32-bit as well as the 64-bit programs on both the platforms. It should be noted that there is absolutely no requirement for the user in order to configure the driver or even the surrounding as well as the software.

It has an entirely Unicode compliant driver and it is possible for the user in order to retrieve as well as altering a document and data from the multilingual database of the Oracle irrespective of their character collection which can be Latin, Hebrew, Chinese and so on.

Devart ODBC Driver for Oracle Great Features:

It has the following features and attributes that are stated as below such as:

- It has a verified compatibility along with a multiple tool of BI as well as ETL.
- There is a full compliance along with the data types of ODBC API.
- It has the ability to provide the users with a direct connection to the source of the data without even having to install any client software.
- It consists of a fast parallel bulk for the data loading process.
- It has the capability to support the 32-bit as well as the 64-bit application.
- There is a Unicode support for different languages as well as data types that are available.
- It is available for the Mac OS, Linux as well as Windows.

版本列表

Devart ODBC Driver for Oracle v3.2.3 (08 Apr 2020)

所有软件资源 100%安全 已检测 无病毒 无篡改
去预览

标签

Java & ActiveX Components