Ginno Legaspi review - SoundBytes Magazine:

The release by Bluezone Corporation is based on sounds that are expertly programmed to provide producers with exciting and new sci-fi sound effects. The name implies that Cargo is a collection of futuristic sounds designed for the production of games, electronica, television experimental, and songs for science fiction. It offers a range of components, including interior and cockpit atmospheres, exterior ambient, the cockpit alarm, interface, beep sounds, reactor rumbles cargo components, explosion passing-by sounds, and transmission.

Inside, you'll find 1GB of material distributed across 38 files in 24-bit/96kHz formats (post-production prepared). The tracks were recorded, altered, processed, and layered using high-end gear and various processing equipment. The quality of the work is high, and the samples conform to the overall theme. With 132 files to experiment with, the pack offers lots to get your teeth into. Good job, Bluezone.
