Develop professional applications that feature an array of customizable components for user interfaces that include Visual Studio-style docking panes and Ribbons that resemble Office, Toolbars, and Menus to give your app an elegant look.

Codejock Toolkit Professional to Visual C++ MFC allows you to create professional-looking applications that include a complete set of user interfaces that are highly customizable components, such as visual studio-like docking panels as well as Office ribbons that resemble Office Toolbars menus, as well as other elements to provide your application with a contemporary design.

Codejock Toolkit Pro for Visual C++ / MFC Features Great:

The calendar offers Windows developers advanced Outlook-style calendars and date selection components.

The chart is simple to utilize and can be added to your website with a couple of lines of code. You can create any chart.

Command Bars are toolbars, menus, and menus that can be customized, and ribbons to make your application a modern, professional interface.

Controls provide Windows developers with various components that are ready to use, well-designed, and tested.

Docking Pane lets you make tear-off tabs and auto-hide windows to permit a more manageable workspace for applications.

Property Grid provides an easy-to-create hierarchy of editable properties that can be used to represent any data item or sub-item.

Grid Control provides an easy-to-create office-style report that can be created for the group. You can also sort data in horizontal or flat format.

Shortcut Bar comes with various choices, including an Expandable Navigation Bar, List and Client Pane, and styles themes.

Skin Framework is an app skinning framework compatible with Windows Themes.

Syntax Edit provides users with an advanced text editor that allows syntax colorization and other features.

Task Panel is an Office Task Panel similar to the one found within Microsoft(r) Office, Explorer, and Visual Studio toolbox.

We offer several support options, including support tickets, web forums, and telephone support if your matter is urgent.
