Innovasys Document! X and HelpStudio v2021.1.1066

2025-02-16 08:44:12

Document! X is an integrated automated documentation tool with a full authoring environment that can be used to create and publish professional-quality documentation for.NET Web Services, Databases.

Document! Document!

HelpStudio makes it easy to publish and create procedures, documentation, and help systems and then integrate them with your desktop, mobile, or web applications.

You can generate output in cross-platform Browser Help. It is automatically responsive for tablet or mobile, HTML Help (CHM), Help 2.0, Help 2.x, Microsoft Help Viewer, the Visual Studio Help Format, and printable PDF. Localization support is built in so that your help system can be distributed to a global audience.

Accurate documentation is difficult, expensive, and time-consuming, especially for complex components or databases schemas. It is easy to see documentation as a moving target. At the end of a project, developers are often re-assigned for new tasks. This can lead to poor documentation.

Document! Document! X allows documentation to be produced automatically throughout design and development. This eliminates the need to invest in developer resources. It provides developers with an accurate and current reference and allows new developers to quickly learn new components and schemas. Document! Document!
