Estrattoredati Total Extractor Pro is an intelligent application that assists you in searching and extracting email addresses and telephone numbers directly through the search engines such as Google and Bing. It only takes typing in your keywords, pressing start, and the program can scan the results in real time in order to capture the data you desire. You may apply several keywords simultaneously and even add social media like LinkedIn, Twitter, and Instagram to expand the coverage.

The software will enable you to select specifically how to conduct your search-is it just the emails you want, or phone numbers, or both? You will be able to filter by country, choose your language, and determine how many pages or processes you want to run simultaneously. To be even more precise, the software may scan whole websites, or it can extract data directly using search result descriptions. All instructions are easy and simple to understand, even to the naive.

The results appear on the screen immediately, and the data available are such as site, keyword, and country. When completed, everything can be exported to a CSV file and opened in Excel, where it is easy to sort, filter, and delete duplicates. Estrattoredati Total Extractor Pro is clean and provides the ability to extract data in bulk, making this a safe and reliable tool to get your data, as long as the proxy settings are configured.
