Everyone Can Draw Lunch – Learn to Draw and Paint Like Me While I Take You Out for Lunch: Ever wondered about the "secret" behind creating enchanting paintings like the one you see here? Well, here's the truth – there are no secrets, no magic, just practice. However, I'm more than willing to share my artistic process. I've already shared it, but you're welcome to tag along!

This class is part of my "EVERYONE CAN" series, encapsulating my belief that "everyone can do anything" they set their minds to. From Everyone Can Draw to Everyone Can Paint and Letters, I'm now introducing Everyone Can Draw Lunch. Why lunch? Because everyone has lunch, it's simple and easy to find, and you can treat yourself to something delightful while drawing it for our class project.

This class is a bit different from my others. While my previous classes on sketch journaling touched on the general topic and artistic mindset, I realized I hadn't delved deep into how I draw and paint. So, in this class, I'll pencil, sketch, draw, and paint my lunch in real time, sharing my entire process with you. You can draw and paint like me with some practice if that's your goal.

But that's not all; I believe art is an integral part of life, and the more we integrate it into our lives, the more we practice it. So, I'll take you out with me! We'll explore Warsaw, shop (yes, I need a new hoodie for every class), make a pit stop at my hairdresser, and enjoy some ramen together. Then, we'll teleport to my studio to pencil, sketch, draw, and paint with watercolors.

I expect you to draw your lunch and share it with me. That's all. When I say my entire process, I mean my "ENTIRE PROCESS." I promise it'll be a fun class.

Whether you're a beginner, intermediate, or advanced artist, if you appreciate my style and want to adopt it, this is the way. Grab a pencil, eraser, waterproof pen, and watercolor paper. I'll specify the brands I use in the materials section, but feel free to use whatever you have at home. I'll break down everything, ensuring you don't need any specific background or expertise to join in.
I can't wait to see your drawings! Come on in!
